Dear Anne

When we first met Suzanne Dekyvere we were looking for an image consultant who could work across a range of levels in our business; from the most senior executives we are working with, through to the most junior – we knew Suzanne was just the right person.

Suzanne has been working with Directioneering staff and candidates since mid 2006. She has worked one-to-one with many of our senior executive candidates; facilitated group sessions and been guest speaker at a number of our client lunches. The feedback we receive is always extremely positive. And if the number of questions Suzanne gets asked in the group forums is any measure of success – Suzanne has exceeded expectations.

By way of background Directioneering is a career management firm providing support to executives as they transition to new employment following a redundancy. The individuals we work with are often vulnerable having recently lost their job. Suzanne handles the circumstances of these individuals with sensitivity, care and professionalism, helping to bring about a renewed confidence. She has a vibrant, warm and engaging nature and is skilled at tackling the most delicate issues of grooming and presentation with velvet gloves.

Yours sincerely
